Stormy weather throughout the days preceding the 16th NACAC Mountain Running Championships did nothing to dampen the spirits of the record five nations competing this year – Mexico, Canada, United States, El Salvador and Costa Rica. The host event, the 12th Carrera Cerro Gordo, offered a challenging course with over 2000 feet of climbing from a starting elevation of 7000 feet to nearly 8700 feet at the high point — the turnaround point — on an out and back course covering 12 kilometers of trail. The route featured rocky sections, hard-packed dirt, grassy terrain, and muddy spots along the trail.
